

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A detritus removal roller construction particularly suited for a lint roller is disclosed having an elongated strip with a backing layer and an adhesive layer overlying one side of the backing layer. The strip has a first end, a 5 second end and two spaced apart sides and is wound from its first end to its second end into a tubular cylindrical roll. The backing layer comprises a compressible layer which retains and/or creates an electrostatic charge in use.